

IMPORTERS ASK THE U. S. TO ACT

One Thousand American Importers Urge Action to Enable Them to Bring Their Dyestuffs, Potash and Other American Owned Goods Out of Germany—British Policy Disliked.

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 26.—Representatives of 1,000 American importers presented to Secretary Lansing today a petition for action by the United States, to enable them to bring out their dyestuffs, potash and other American-owned goods in Germany without British interference.

The importers recited their case. They told of the agreements originally made informally by them with Great Britain for shipment of American-owned goods from Germany through neutral countries, contracted for prior to the order in council; the difficulties over an extension of time for shipment of such cargoes, and the general effects of the British policy on their business.

Secretary Lansing took the facts under consideration and it is generally believed they will form the subject of separate representations to Great Britain, apart from the broad subject of the so-called blockade, which is treated in a new note that has been under preparation for some time.

After the conference, counsel for the importers issued a statement saying Secretary Lansing had expressed a determination on the part of President Wilson and himself to do all in their power to aid.

A copy of the petition, which is addressed to President Wilson, was made public in New York and sets forth that the British blockade measures concern "not only the property rights of the undersigned citizens," but involves "a contemplated unlawful destruction of a most important portion of the entire commerce of the United States."

CRUSHING DEFEAT FOR THE CARRANZA FORCES

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 26.—Official advices today report a smashing defeat of General Gonzales and the Carranza army advancing on Mexico City by the Zapata forces. General Carranza has ordered all available rolling stock from Vera Cruz toward the capital to cover the retreat and in an effort to save Gonzales and his army.

Two representatives here of General Carranza left today for Vera Cruz, and it is understood will acquaint General Carranza with the viewpoint of the American government regarding conditions in Mexico.

It was also understood they will endeavor to bring about a reconciliation between the Constitutional leader and the Villa and Zapata factions.

Official attention here was focused today on Mexico, with Carranza forces and the Villa-Zapata troops reported in an artillery duel for possession of Mexico City. Reports of the operations were conflicting.

Unofficial advices from Carranza sources said General Gonzales and Carranza troops had occupied a considerable portion of the Mexican capital, while official advices from Vera Cruz reported the failure of Gonzales to enter the capital.

The State Department has received Carranza's guarantee of protection for non-combatants in case of fighting at Mexico City.

Villa reports declare the report that Carranza's forces captured Aguascalientes is absurd.

Captain Hastings made a complete denial of all the more important charges made against him. He also refuted many of the allegations made by J. H. Geer, a discharged employe, as the result of whose statement the investigation was conducted.

Telegrams and letters were presented by Captain Hastings from several juvenile judges, denying the juvenile judges were hostile to the administration of Superintendent Hastings.

SOCIALISTS MAKE CALL FOR PEACE

By Associated Press.

Berlin, June 26.—The Board of Directors or managing committee of the Social Democratic party in Germany has caused to be published in the Vorwaerts a full page appeal for peace.

This interesting document calls for a peace, under certain circumstances, which will make possible friendships with neighboring nations, and it sets forth most clearly the opposition of the party to territorial conquests and annexation.

The people want peace, it declares, and the government is called upon, in the name of humanity, to make known its readiness to enter peace negotiations.

The appeal begins with a reference to the fact that the Socialists foresaw the coming of the war. It also says that "Germany should take the first steps to bring about peace," because she has demonstrated that she is unconquerable.

Newport, R. I., June 26.—In an address at the opening session of the Navy War College here today Secretary Daniels appealed to American naval officers to profit by the lessons that are being taught by the great war in Europe and to fearlessly discard all theories which fail to stand the acid test. He referred briefly to the navy program for the coming year and expressed confidence that congress would authorize and increase recommended.

"In personnel and material the navy is larger than ever before," Mr. Daniels said. "Its men are trained and fit. Its experts in every department are active to remedy any defect of the past and to take advantage of all that has been learned in the only true school in which this knowledge may be obtained, by observing through our experts in Europe all that may be learned from actual war.

The attendance was said to be 80,000. Resta made 160 miles in one hour, 16 minutes and 44 seconds, a world's record. His speed was 99.23 miles an hour, approximately 10 miles faster than the record made by DePalma at Indianapolis.

Automobile men here predicted the race would shatter every competitive speedway record in the world. It was announced that Resta had broken the world's record for 200 miles and for 320 miles, at an average speed of 98 miles an hour.

EUROPE AWAITS NEXT BIG DRIVE

Allies Expecting Terrific Drive Toward Warsaw, Paris or English Channel, and Believe Bitter Fighting Will Come in Near Future—Teutonic Drive Stopped Along Nearly All of Eastern Front—Italians Claim Further Advance.

London, June 26.—With a breathless expectancy, which seems to be reflected in the pause at the present moment on both battle fronts on the continent, the next move on the European chess board is awaited. It is conceded that this move is Germany's and that it may be made against either Warsaw, Paris, or Calais.

Some German activity has been reported in the Argonne, which may indicate a drive in the direction of Paris, but the closing of the Belgian frontier may mean preparation for another attempt to break through to the English Channel.

Many persons believe, however, that no great offensive movement will be attempted along the western front until another effort has been made to reach Warsaw, against which positions the Germans are said to be bringing big guns from Essen.

The left bank of the Dniester has been entirely cleared of the Teutonic troops who forced their way across at two points early this week, according to the latest Russian statements, but the Austro-German forces are making desperate efforts to effect a passage elsewhere.

Bridging operations were begun near Bukaszowice by the Teutons the same night they were driven back at the other two points. A battle is still raging at this third point of contact.

Nearly everywhere else along the eastern war front the drive of the Teutonic allies has been at least temporarily checked, according to Russian claim.

Rome, June 26.—The Italians are continuing their work of keeping clear the ground in front of them in Tyrol Trentino, and in Cadore and other places, by artillery fire and isolated infantry operations, the official reports say. Progress is being made along the Isonzo.

New York, June 26.—In the lull to day in the court proceedings to determine the sanity of Harry K. Thaw, it became known that the state is trying to find Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, central figure in the shooting of Stanford White, to place her on the witness stand.

Process servers sought her throughout the city, but were unable to find her. The search will be continued.

William T. Jerome, who had balked all Thaw's previous efforts for freedom, may be another witness for the state. Mr. Jerome is not connected with the present proceedings.

Other witnesses included a number of persons who are prepared, it is said, to testify concerning Thaw's early life.

"But Italy is said to have concentrated strong forces in Rhodes long ago."

SOMMERS SAYS BRYAN IS IDEAL AMERICAN CITIZEN

Stood Against Attacks of Hostile Press—
Nomination of Woodrow Wilson Was Bryan's Greatest Achievement—Promulgated and Signed Treaties of Permanent
Peace With 30 Nations of the World—
Sees His Policies Enacted Into Law—
Sacrificed Self Rather Than Principle.

(By H. A. Sommers.)

I have known Mr. William J. Bryan longer than any man now in public life in Kentucky. I met him in Washington, when he entered Congress in 1891, while I was a member of the press gallery, and during the twenty-five years since that time, have kept in close touch with his remarkable career, and also in touch with his pleasing and magnetic personality.

One day during the long session of Congress in 1891, I strolled into the press gallery to a seat just over the Speaker's desk. I was the only person in the gallery at the time when the youthful and strikingly handsome Congressman began his maiden speech. The tariff bill was under discussion. At the beginning he was treated with the usual discourtesy that is extended to a new member, but as his clear voice rang out in the House chamber, and his well-rounded sentences began to flow in eloquence and logic, he soon was given the undivided attention of both Democratic and Republican members. Every newspaper man was in his seat, realizing that something unusual was taking place. He made a great speech, the greatest I had ever heard, and I had listened to some of the famous men of the nation. His quickness to answer questions meant to embarrass him, which later the whole country appreciated, was manifested at this time, when, one after another, he floored Reed, Dingley and Payne, who interrupted him. Never for a moment did he lose his balance, nor was he drawn away from his prepared speech.

Watterson's Opinion.

Shortly afterward, coming to Kentucky I met on the train the editor of the Courier-Journal, who also had heard the speech, and I asked him what he thought of it. He replied, "Bryan is the greatest young man who has come out of the West." This statement has been verified in the subsequent history of this marvelous man.

Bryan at Chicago.

My next personal contact with Mr. Bryan was at Chicago in 1896. I sat within twenty feet of him when he delivered his marvelous speech at that convention. I heard Conkling and Blaine, Daniels and Ben Hill and Bourke Cochran, but, as an orator, Bryan outclassed them all. I do not think this country has ever produced so great an orator as Bryan when you consider his presence, his voice, his magnetism, his grace, his perfect command of language and the lucidity of his arguments. There was never a man who heard Bryan who did not understand everything he said, and he never said anything that was capable of but one construction. It was his speech at Chicago that won him the Presidential nomination.

False Report Corrected.

The night after he made his famous speech there was circulated among the Southern delegates, for the purpose of defeating him, that he had refused to vote for Crisp for Speaker because Crisp was a Confederate soldier. At two o'clock in the morning I went to his room at a little hotel, woke him up, and told him the story that was being circulated. Aroused from a sound slumber, and half-asleep as he was, he promptly told me what to do. He said go to Capt. W. T. Ellis, of Owensboro, then Congressman from the Second Kentucky district, a close friend of Crisp, and himself a Confederate soldier, and ask him to correct the false report. I did so at once, and Capt. Ellis did it, and did it effectually.

The Campaign of '96.

I was chairman of the Campaign Committee in Kentucky in the memorable campaign of 1896 and was in close touch with this great leader throughout those fighting days. He never lost his temper no matter how much he was abused. He never lost his head under any circumstances, and for three months made three times as many speeches as any three men had ever made in the same period of time. He polled more votes than any candidate of either party had ever polled before, with the metropolitan press practically a unit against him and with all the big corporations and nearly all the wealthy men against him. Yet these things combined could not have beaten him. It required a corruption fund of $11,000,000 to debauch the ballot box and corrupt the election officers.

Bryan Policies Enacted Into Law.

With his great genius and comprehension of American government he has lived to see every principle enunciated in the Chicago platform of 1896 become part of the laws of the nation, except bimetalism, and that was defeated by the discovery of gold in the Yukon in sufficient quantities to reduce the purchasing power of the dollar forty per cent.

Sacrificed Self Rather Than Principle.

Mr. Bryan's ideas have been based upon his opinion as to what was best for the country. He has time and time again sacrificed himself for his ideas rather than sacrifice his ideas for himself. Twice he could have been President if he had yielded his opinion. Once was when he made his triumphant return from around the world and in Madison Square Garden, against the vehement protest of his friends, practically declared for the Government ownership of railroads. At another time certain plutocratic interests at Wall street sent to him an emissary who told him that he could and would be elected President if he would allow "certain friends" to name judges of the Supreme Court to fill any vacancies that might arise during his term. Of course, he spurned this suggestion. He, like Henry Clay, "would rather be right than President."

Hostility of Liquor Interests.

Mr. Bryan first incurred the hostility of the liquor interests in a state campaign in Nebraska when Maj. Dahlman was nominated for Governor. The same convention which nominated Dahlman declared for local option. Dahlman, on the stump, declared that if elected Governor and the Legislature passed a law embodying the local option plank of the platform that he would veto it. Mr. Bryan at once took the stump against Dahlman and declared that a man who repudiated the platform upon which he was nominated was not worthy of the support of his party. The remainder of the Democratic ticket was elected, but through Bryan's influence, Dahlman was defeated by 20,000. The liquor newspapers attacked Bryan very bitterly for his action and declared that he was disloyal to his party, when, as a matter of fact, the disloyal man was Dahlman.

Bryan not only lost the support of the liquor interests, throughout the country, which have since dogged his footsteps, but alienated from himself many personal friends. In this, he again demonstrated his true greatness as he was willing to lose popularity rather than surrender what he knew to be right.

At the Baltimore Convention.

At the Baltimore convention he nominated Woodrow Wilson for President, probably the greatest achievement in his career. Before the convention both Clark and Wilson had declared that they were friends of Mr. Bryan, and the latter had said that either of them would be an acceptable candidate to him. When the National Committee agreed upon Alton B. Parker for Temporary Chairman of the Convention, Mr. Bryan got busy. He saw in this that the same sinister interest, which had dominated the Republican Convention at Chicago sought to control the Democratic Convention. He immediately declared himself against Parker, and called upon the candidates for the Democratic nomination for President to speak out on the question.

Wilson for Bryan.

Woodrow Wilson was the only candidate who came out and said that Mr. Bryan was proceeding "within his rights." When every vote instructed for Wilson was cast against Parker, and the majority of the Clark's votes, including a part of the Missouri delegation, were cast for Mr. Parker, Mr. Bryan became suspicious of Clark. He then, on the convention floor, denounced the "interests." When New York, cast its ninety votes for Clark, Mr. Bryan had every reason to believe that the Speaker, having gotten all of his instructed votes for the Presidential nomination under the pretense of being a friend to the Commoner, had made a deal with the same elements which dominated the Chicago Convention. He thought that Democratic success was only to be obtained by escaping the opprobrium of Wall street support. He was right in this conclusion, for had Murphy named the candidate Roosevelt would have been elected President. He made another sacrifice for his party's sake and his country's sake, and changed his vote from Clark to Wilson, carrying the Nebraska delegation with him.

Wisdom of His Action.

In the light of events of the past two years the country knows he did right, and Nebraska Democrats, in their next State convention, endorsed his action. The liquor interests were behind Clark and had a great lot of their picked lobbyists in Baltimore to aid him. Whether Mr. Bryan knew this, I do not know, but the liquor interest has never ceased to abuse him, for what they call his "betrayal of Clark." He did nothing of the kind. Clark betrayed himself in the alliances he made, and Bryan simply refused to be a party to the betrayal.

As a Cabinet Officer.

When Mr. Bryan entered President Wilson's Cabinet the subsidized press of the money interests and the liquor interests violently assailed him. His refusal to serve wine on his table as Secretary of State was ridiculed and made light of, and yet that refusal has had more influence against the use of strong drink than any dozen sermons or lectures which have ever been delivered.

The greatest act of Wilson's Administration is the Regional Bank Bill. It was abused by the bankers in all the large cities, who thought the control of the money of the country should be in their hands. They fought it to the last ditch and it never would have been passed but for Mr. Bryan. Better than any man saw the opportunity which the measure afforded in twelve Reserve Banks, to wrest the scepter of money control from the gamblers of Wall street and he threw the powerful personal influence he possessed in the trembling scale of balance and put the measure through. He did it without claiming any credit for himself. In fact, he did everything to make the Wilson Administration successful and let every bit of the credit go to the President.

The Unfair Press.

The hostile and unfair press to Mr. Bryan has made all manner of fun of him as Secretary of State. It has referred to him as rattling around in greater mens' shoes. There is one accomplishment which gives the lie to this, if he had done nothing else. He has promulgated and signed treaties of permanent peace with thirty countries of the world, including all the great nations, except Germany and Austria. Even Germany has accepted the principle, but asked for further time to consider. The principal thing in all these treaties is the matter of arbitration and the nations bind themselves to accept this, and in no case to go to war earlier than a year after the incident which caused the difference. This practically insures universal peace. The fruition of this great accomplishment will come to generations yet unborn. Perhaps this is the reason why Mr. Bryan could not sign the last note to Germany, because Germany had suggested arbitration and Mr. Bryan, to be consistent with the treaties he had signed, could not afford to decline Germany's suggestion. I do not write this in justification of Mr. Bryan's resignation but rather in extenuation. He appears to be in the wrong now, but time may demonstrate that he was right. Be that as it may.

Points of Greatness.

W. J. Bryan, as a Christian, without guile or hypocrisy, has done more for the cause of Christ in the world than any preacher.

He is a moralist, who has done more to raise the standard of life both by precept and example than any other living man.

He is an orator who will rank in the class with the greatest of the English speaking nations.

He is a total abstainer who has done more against the evils of intemperance than all the laws against liquor ever enacted.

He is a statesman who has broken the grasp of predatory wealth upon the throats of the common people.

In every particular and in all ways he is the Ideal Citizen of the Republic.

CLEVER WORK OF EXPERT ANGLERS

For judging the casting contests at the Fish and Game outing, Messrs G. G. Tingham and T. A. Argenbright, of Columbus, were selected and at the conclusion of the contests Mr. Tingham gave an exhibition of expert casting.

Standing at the starting point, with no apparent effort, he sent the little 1/2 oz. weight sailing far in the air and it dropped beyond the 100 foot mark. A second and third trial were even better and his last cast landed 147 feet and 9 inches from his feet.

Mr. Tingham in private life is manager of the Schoedinger-Marr Co. of Columbus and has but one hobby, angling, and his work at the Ridge was a revelation to those who consider fishing as a sport where a line is tied to a pole and the bait dropped in the water near the bank.

Fly fishing is an entirely different and more difficult art than casting, in that the line is not weighted and the propulsion needed to send the feathered fly far over the water, comes from the accelerated motion obtained from the movement of the wrist. Starting the line out from the rod, Mr. Tingham would wave graceful and back and forth over his head until the desired length of line was in the air, then with a single turn of the wrist lay the end of the line far away, with an accuracy that would come within a two foot circle at 75 feet.

Mr. Argenbright, a former secretary of the Anglers Club of Columbus stated that four years ago there was not a man in the city who could cast, but the interest aroused by the four Tournaments they have held is such that the club now numbers 1-574.

The local casting game, with the impetus given by the expert work, looks like a popular summer sport, all afternoon men who had never before made a cast were busy trying to master the intricacies of this part of the gentle art of angling.

The farm of Gideon Bryan, near New Holland, was sold by Milton Bennett, executor of the estate, Thursday, and the 483 acres in the estate brought $57,083.53, or more than $117,000 more than the price recently asked at private sale.

Part of the land was purchased a few years ago for $50 per acre and is now valued at nearly three times that much. The average price of the land was $118.13 per acre.

I have known Mr. William J. Bryan longer than any man now in public life in Kentucky. I met him in Washington, when he entered Congress in 1891, while I was a member of the press gallery, and during the twenty-five years since that time, have kept in close touch with his remarkable career, and also in touch with his pleasing and magnetic personality.

One day during the long session of Congress in 1891, I strolled into the press gallery to a seat just over the Speaker's desk. I was the only person in the gallery at the time when the youthful and strikingly handsome Congressman began his maiden speech. The tariff bill was under discussion. At the beginning he was treated with the usual discourtesy that is extended to a new member, but as his clear voice rang out in the House chamber, and his well-rounded sentences began to flow in eloquence and logic, he soon was given the undivided attention of both Democratic and Republican members. Every newspaper man was in his seat, realizing that something unusual was taking place. He made a great speech, the greatest I had ever heard, and I had listened to some of the famous men of the nation. His quickness to answer questions meant to embarrass him, which later the whole country appreciated, was manifested at this time, when, one after another, he felled Reed, Dingley and Payne, who interrupted him. Never for a moment did he lose his balance, nor was he drawn away from his prepared speech.

Watterson's Opinion.

Shortly afterward, coming to Kentucky I met on the train the editor of the Courier-Journal, who also had heard the speech, and I asked him what he thought of it. He replied, "Bryan is the greatest young man who has come out of the West." This statement has been verified in the subsequent history of this marvelous man.

Bryan at Chicago.

My next personal contact with Mr. Bryan was at Chicago in 1896. I sat within twenty feet of him when he delivered his marvelous speech at that convention. I heard Conkling and Blaine, Daniels and Ben Hill and Bourke Cochran, but, as an orator, Bryan outclassed them all. I do not think this country has ever produced so great an orator as Bryan when you consider his presence, his voice, his magnetism, his grace, his perfect command of language and the lucidity of his arguments. There was never a man who heard Bryan who did not understand everything he said, and he never said anything that was capable of but one construction. It was his speech at Chicago that won him the Presidential nomination.

False Report Corrected.

The night after he made his famous speech there was circulated among the Southern delegates, for the purpose of defeating him, that he had refused to vote for Crisp for Speaker because Crisp was a Confederate soldier. At two o'clock in the morning I went to his room at a little hotel, woke him up, and told him the story that was being circulated. Aroused from a sound slumber, and half-asleep as he was, he promptly told me what to do. He said go to Capt. W. T. Ellis, of Owensboro, then Congressman from the Second Kentucky district, a close friend of Crisp, and himself a Confederate soldier, and ask him to correct the false report. I did so at once, and Capt. Ellis did it, and did it effectually.

The Campaign of '96.

I was chairman of the Campaign Committee in Kentucky in the memorable campaign of 1896 and was in close touch with this great leader throughout those fighting days. He never lost his temper no matter how much he was abused. He never lost his head under any circumstances, and for three months made three times as many speeches as any three men had ever made in the same period of time. He polled more votes than any candidate of either party had ever polled before, with the metropolitan press practically a unit against him and with all the big corporations and nearly all the wealthy men against him. Yet these things combined could not have beaten him. It required a corruption fund of $11,000,000 to debauch the ballot box and corrupt the election officers.

Bryan Policies Enacted Into Law.

With his great genius and comprehension of American government he has lived to see every principle enunciated in the Chicago platform of 1896 become part of the laws of the nation, except bimetalism, and that was defeated by the discovery of gold in the Yukon in sufficient quantities to reduce the purchasing power of the dollar forty per cent.

Sacrificed Self Rather Than Principle.

Mr. Bryan's ideas have been based upon his opinion as to what was best for the country. He has time and time again sacrificed himself for his ideas rather than sacrifice his ideas for himself. Twice he could have been President if he had yielded his opinion. Once was when he made his triumphant return from around the world and in Madison Square Garden, against the vehement protest of his friends, practically declared for the Government ownership of railroads. At another time certain plutocratic interests at Wall street sent to him an emissary who told him that he could and would be elected President if he would allow "certain friends" to name judges of the Supreme Court to fill any vacancies that might arise during his term. Of course, he spurned this suggestion. He, like Henry Clay, "would rather be right than President."

Hostility of Liquor Interests.

Mr. Bryan first incurred the hostility of the liquor interests in a state campaign in Nebraska when Maj. Dahlman was nominated for Governor. The same convention which nominated Dahlman declared for local option. Dahlman, on the stump, declared that if elected Governor and the Legislature passed a law embodying the local option plank of the platform that he would veto it. Mr. Bryan at once took the stump against Dahlman and declared that a man who repudiated the platform upon which he was nominated was not worthy of the support of his party. The remainder of the Democratic ticket was elected, but through Bryan's influence, Dahlman was defeated by 20,000. The liquor newspapers attacked Bryan very bitterly for his action and declared that he was disloyal to his party, when, as a matter of fact, the disloyal man was Dahlman.

Bryan not only lost the support of the liquor interests, throughout the country, which have since dogged his footsteps, but alienated from himself many personal friends. In this, he again demonstrated his true greatness as he was willing to lose popularity rather than surrender what he knew to be right.

At the Baltimore Convention.

At the Baltimore convention he nominated Woodrow Wilson for President, probably the greatest achievement in his career. Before the convention both Clark and Wilson had declared that they were friends of Mr. Bryan, and the latter had said that either of them would be an acceptable candidate to him. When the National Committee agreed upon Alton B. Parker for Temporary Chairman of the Convention, Mr. Bryan got busy. He saw in this that the same sinister interest, which had dominated the Republican Convention at Chicago sought to control the Democratic Convention. He immediately declared himself against Parker, and called upon the candidates for the Democratic nomination for President to speak out on the question.

Wilson for Bryan.

Woodrow Wilson was the only candidate who came out and said that Mr. Bryan was proceeding "within his rights." When every vote instructed for Wilson was cast against Parker, and the majority of the Clark's votes, including a part of the Missouri delegation, were cast for Mr. Parker, Mr. Bryan became suspicious of Clark. He then, on the convention floor, denounced the "interests." When New York, at the dictation of "Boss" Murphy, cast its ninety votes for Clark, Mr. Bryan had every reason to believe that the Speaker, having gotten all of his instructed votes for the Presidential nomination under the pretense of being a friend to the Commoner, had made a deal with the same elements which dominated the Chicago Convention. He thought that Democratic success was only to be obtained by escaping the opprobrium of Wall street support. He was right in this conclusion, for had Murphy named the candidate Roosevelt would have been elected President. He made another sacrifice for his party's sake and his country's sake, and changed his vote from Clark to Wilson, carrying the Nebraska delegation with him.

Wisdom of His Action.

In the light of events of the past two years the country knows he did right, and Nebraska Democrats, in their next State convention, endorsed his action. The liquor interests were behind Clark and had a great lot of their picked lobbyists in Baltimore to aid him. Whether Mr. Bryan knew this, I do not know, but the liquor interest has never ceased to abuse him, for what they call his "betrayal of Clark." He did nothing of the kind. Clark betrayed himself in the alliances he made, and Bryan simply refused to be a party to the betrayal.

As a Cabinet Officer.

When Mr. Bryan entered President Wilson's Cabinet the subsidized press of the money interests and the liquor interests violently assailed him. His refusal to serve wine on his table as Secretary of State was ridiculed and made light of, and yet that refusal has had more influence against the use of strong drink than any dozen sermons or lectures which have ever been delivered.

The greatest act of Wilson's Administration is the Regional Bank Bill. It was abused by the bankers in all the large cities, who thought the control of the money of the country should be in their hands. They fought it to the last ditch and it never would have been passed but for Mr. Bryan. Better than any man saw the opportunity which the measure afforded in twelve Reserve Banks, to wrest the sceptre of money control from the gamblers of Wall street and he threw the powerful personal influence he possessed in the trembling scale of balance and put the measure through. He did it without claiming any credit for himself. In fact, he did everything to make the Wilson Administration successful and let every bit of the credit go to the President.

The Unfair Press.

The hostile and unfair press to Mr. Bryan has made all manner of fun of him as Secretary of State. It has referred to him as rattling around in greater mens' shoes. There is one accomplishment which gives the lie to this, if he had done nothing else. He has promulgated and signed treaties of permanent peace with thirty countries of the world, including all the great nations, except Germany and Austria. Even Germany has accepted the principle, but asked for further time to consider. The principal thing in all these treaties is the matter of arbitration and the nations bind themselves to accept this, and in no case to go to war earlier than a year after the incident which caused the difference. This practically insures universal peace. The fruition of this great accomplishment will come to generations yet unborn. Perhaps this is the reason why Mr. Bryan could not sign the last note to Germany, because Germany had suggested arbitration and Mr. Bryan, to be consistent with the treaties he had signed, could not afford to decline Germany's suggestion. I do not write this in justification of Mr. Bryan's resignation but rather in extenuation. He appears to be in the wrong now, but time may demonstrate that he was right. Be that as it may.

Concerning Germany's Answer

Later reports from Berlin, from apparently authentic sources, seem to justify the hope and the belief that the reply of the German government to President Wilson's note demanding a modification of the method of submarine warfare, will go a long way toward meeting the demands of the United States.

There is a strong and constantly growing sentiment in Germany in favor of complying, in so far as possible, with the demand of this nation that the lives of passengers on neutral ships be safeguarded. There is a strong friendship among the German people for the United States and it is not likely that the war party will, in this crisis, ride rough shod over that sentiment.

The prospect now is that while Germany will not consent to abandon her submarine warfare against hostile merchantmen entirely and will advance the reason why compliance with such a request cannot be made, yet the probability increases each hour that the Imperial government will agree to exempt ships, wholly or principally engaged in passenger traffic, from submarine attack.

It is likely too that Germany will ask in return for those concessions that the United States see to it that such ships are not used to transport ammunition or guns nor to lend themselves to attacks upon submarines.

If the hope that Germany will forward such a reply is realized it will go far toward strengthening the friendship between the two nations and will prove the most important diplomatic action of the German government since Austria first threatened war on Serbia.

Following immediately after the sweeping victories of the German forces in Galicia and Poland the adoption of such a policy in the present diplomatic crisis would strengthen the German cause immensely.

Germany's warriors have proven their prowess on many bloody battle fields, but Germany's diplomacy has proven wonderfully deficient. Had the diplomatic leaders in Germany been equal in efficiency to the army leaders the nation would not have been so seriously menaced by the great coalition of hostile governments.

That Germany should make every endeavor possible to meet the demands of this nation has been conceded on all hands ever since the Lusitania was torpedoed off the Irish coast. Germany should take that course because it is the right course and the only honorable course and because it is the only diplomatic course to adopt.

A Subject for Discussion

The Ohio State Bar Association which is scheduled to hold its annual meeting at Cedar Point early in July will, as it usually does, have some very interesting subjects discussed.

Among other subjects which the executive committee of the association has placed on the program is "That as the Industrial Commission and the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio exercise important functions of a judicial nature, the members thereof should be protected by the constitution in their tenure of office."

The fact that that subject has been placed on the program for discussion proves that the lawyers of the state are fully appreciative of the important work which the commissions named are called upon to perform. It is proof also that the members of the legal profession realize the great need of a workmen's compensation law, properly administered, and the necessity for regulation and control of the great utility companies operating in the state.

More than all that too, the action of the executive committee amounts almost to a direct assertion that so important is the work of those commissions that the people of the state should adopt means to secure the proper execution of those important laws by adopting means to safeguard the officials charged with administering the law from the dangers of political interference and to insure that the men who execute those laws should be above the suspicion of political control even, if necessary, to provide a guarantee of office tenure by constitutional amendment.

In the action taken by the executive committee of the bar association there is to be found strong support for those who condemn the action of state administrations as they come along in order, biennially, present and past, in enacting "ripper" legislation or adopting other methods designed simply to land political workers as members of the commissions in reward for services rendered.

The bar association sees in the two important commissions a splendid opportunity to rebuke a course of conduct too long adhered to and at the same time to urge the elevation of, at least important quasi judicial positions, above the greedy grasp of politics and politicians.

Poetry For Today

THE HILLS.
 Shall I leave the hills, the high, far hills that shadow the morning plain?
 Shall I leave the desert sand and sage that gleams in the winter rain?
 Shall I leave the ragged bridle trail to ride in the city street—
 To snatch a song from the printed word,
 Or sit at a master's feet?

To barter the sting of the mountain wind for the choking fog and smoke?
 To barter the song of the mountain stream for the babble of city folk?
 To lose my grip on the God I know and fumble among the creeds
 Oh, rocks and pines of the high, far hill,
 Hear the lisp of the valley reeds,
 —Henry Herbert Knibbs in "Songs of the Outdoors."

WOULD CALL EVELYN THAW

New York, June 26.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will be called again as a witness against Harry K. Thaw in the present proceedings to determine his sanity if agents for the state can find her and get her into the courtroom. There are indications that Deputy Attorney General Cook is not quite convinced that Thaw's wife is in another part of the country and he hopes to bring her forward not only for the purpose of offsetting the testimony given so far in behalf of Thaw, but also to draw from her, if possible, a repudiation of her story about Stanford White—a story the untruths of which Mr. Cook hopes to prove before the trial is ended.

Witness after witness took the stand to say that New Hampshire folk could not understand this insanity business at all. To them Mr. Thaw appeared to be perfectly rational, and it all had a very soothing effect upon Thaw.

Washington, June 26.—Advices received in Washington are to the effect that the southern business men and bankers are wrought up over the suspension in the cotton export trade that has been brought about by Great Britain's blockade of neutral commerce. It is understood that a protest in behalf of southern cotton men will soon be lodged at Washington.

SENSATION DEVELOPS IN NASHVILLE

Nashville, Tenn., June 26.—No sooner had a receivership been asked for the city of Nashville in a sensational bill in the chancery court, than a greater sensation was sprung by City Comptroller Burns when he had a state warrant issued for City Treasurer Charles A. Myers, charging him with the fraudulent appropriation of $10,000 of the interest money of the city, and the latter official was held to the grand jury in the sum of $20,000.

These new features followed the discovery that the city hall had been looted of eleven additional cash and revenue books while the investigation was being conducted by James Cameron and staff of New York, which experts began the investigation of the city two weeks ago, after a hard fight on the part of citizens to get an audit of the city's books.

In casting up, so far warrants have been issued against City Commissioner Lyle Andrews, Comptroller Burns and Assistant City Treasurer Doc West, supposed to be en route to Australia after being missing for two weeks. All of these are charged with making away and destroying books previously reported as stolen. In the warrant against Treasurer Myers it is charged by the comptroller that the former made away with interest money collected from the banks to the amount mentioned. Further greater sensations are expected. Action for a receivership to take charge of the deplorable conditions of the city will be pressed by citizens.

THOUSAND ARE DEAD

Petrograd, June 26.—More than 1,000 persons, including many women and children, lost their lives through the collapse of a river pier at a pleasure garden at Kazan, 400 miles east of Moscow. The pier, which appears to have been of flimsy construction, gave way while holiday makers were crowding upon it to take the last boat back to the city. Practically everybody on the pier was thrown into the water and the crew of the steamboat were able to save only a few persons.

Concerning Germany's Answer

Later reports from Berlin, from apparently authentic sources, seem to justify the hope and the belief that the reply of the German government to President Wilson's note demanding a modification of the method of submarine warfare, will go a long way toward meeting the demands of the United States.

There is a strong and constantly growing sentiment in Germany in favor of complying, in so far as possible, with the demand of this nation that the lives of passengers on neutral ships be safeguarded. There is a strong friendship among the German people for the United States and it is not likely that the war party will, in this crisis, ride rough shod over that sentiment.

The prospect now is that while Germany will not consent to abandon her submarine warfare against hostile merchantmen entirely and will advance the reason why compliance with such a request cannot be made, yet the probability increases each hour that the Imperial government will agree to exempt ships, wholly or principally engaged in passenger traffic, from submarine attack.

It is likely too that Germany will ask in return for those concessions that the United States see to it that such ships are not used to transport ammunition or guns nor to lend themselves to attacks upon submarines.

If the hope that Germany will forward such a reply is realized it will go far toward strengthening the friendship between the two nations and will prove the most important diplomatic action of the German government since Austria first threatened war on Serbia.

Following immediately after the sweeping victories of the German forces in Galicia and Poland the adoption of such a policy in the present diplomatic crisis would strengthen the German cause immensely.

Germany's warriors have proven their prowess on many bloody battle fields, but Germany's diplomacy has proven wonderfully deficient. Had the diplomatic leaders in Germany been equal in efficiency to the army leaders the nation would not have been so seriously menaced by the great coalition of hostile governments.

That Germany should make every endeavor possible to meet the demands of this nation has been conceded on all hands ever since the Lusitania was torpedoed off the Irish coast. Germany should take that course because it is the right course and the only honorable course and because it is the only diplomatic course to adopt.

A Subject for Discussion

The Ohio State Bar Association which is scheduled to hold its annual meeting at Cedar Point early in July will, as it usually does, have some very interesting subjects discussed.

Among other subjects which the executive committee of the association has placed on the program is "That as the Industrial Commission and the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio exercise important functions of a judicial nature, the members thereof should be protected by the constitution in their tenure of office."

The fact that that subject has been placed on the program for discussion proves that the lawyers of the state are fully appreciative of the important work which the commissions named are called upon to perform. It is proof also that the members of the legal profession realize the great need of a workmen's compensation law, properly administered, and the necessity for regulation and control of the great utility companies operating in the state.

More than all that too, the action of the executive committee amounts almost to a direct assertion that so important is the work of those commissions that the people of the state should adopt means to secure the proper execution of those important laws by adopting means to safeguard the officials charged with administering the law from the dangers of political interference and to insure that the men who execute those laws should be above the suspicion of political control even, if necessary, to provide a guarantee of office tenure by constitutional amendment.

In the action taken by the executive committee of the bar association there is to be found strong support for those who condemn the action of state administrations as they come along in order, biennially, present and past, in enacting "ripper" legislation or adopting other methods designed simply to land political workers as members of the commissions in reward for services rendered.

The bar association sees in the two important commissions a splendid opportunity to rebuke a course of conduct too long adhered to and at the same time to urge the elevation of, at least important quasi judicial positions, above the greedy grasp of politics and politicians.

THE HILLS.

Shall I leave the hills, the high, far hills that shadow the morning plain?
Shall I leave the desert sand and sage that gleams in the winter rain?
Shall I leave the ragged bridle trail to ride in the city street—
To snatch a song from the printed word,
Or sit at a master's feet?

To barter the sting of the mountain wind for the choking fog and smoke?
To barter the song of the mountain stream for the babble of city folk?
To lose my grip on the God I know and fumble among the creeds
Oh, rocks and pines of the high, far hill,
Hear the lisp of the valley reeds,
—Henry Herbert Knibbs in "Songs of the Outdoors."

WOULD CALL EVELYN THAW

New York, June 26.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will be called again as a witness against Harry K. Thaw in the present proceedings to determine his sanity if agents for the state can find her and get her into the courtroom. There are indications that Deputy Attorney General Cook is not quite convinced that Thaw's wife is in another part of the country and he hopes to bring her forward not only for the purpose of offsetting the testimony given so far in behalf of Thaw, but also to draw from her, if possible, a repudiation of her story about Stanford White—a story the antrata of which Mr. Cook hopes to prove before the trial is ended.

Witness after witness took the stand to say that New Hampshire folk could not understand this insanity business at all. To them Mr. Thaw appeared to be perfectly rational, and it all had a very soothing effect upon Thaw.

Washington, June 26.—Advises received in Washington are to the effect that the southern business men and bankers are wrought up over the suspension in the cotton export trade that has been brought about by Great Britain's blockade of neutral commerce. It is understood that a protest in behalf of southern cotton men will soon be lodged at Washington.

FIGHT LEGAL BATTLE FOR CUSTODY OF ALIEN CHILD

A case which has been pending for several weeks, came up in Probate court, Saturday morning, and is the outgrowth of the custody of Vascil Mangelouse, aged 13 years, a half sister to Mrs. Peter Brown, who formerly was employed in the Cozy Corner.

Some six weeks ago Humane officer Gooderl took charge of the child and placed it in the custody of Miss Grace Ogle, of this city. Charges were filed with Probate Judge Allen, by C. E. Page, president of the Humane Society, alleging that the Greek child was being overworked in the Cozy Corner, and was not receiving the proper schooling. This was not denied by Brown.

When the child was placed in the custody of Miss Ogle, Mrs. Mary Charuhaus, of Piqua retained Rankin & Rankin and sought to gain custody of the child that it might be brought up in the Greek faith and in accordance with Greek customs, and not be in charge of anyone other than a member of her own family, the child having a number of half sisters and half brothers in America who are rated well-to-do and who have set up a vigorous protest to gain control of the girl.

During the time the case has been pending, the little girl has been in the care of Miss Ogle. Meanwhile an investigation made in Piqua elicited the information that the Piqua relatives were capable of taking care of the child properly.

Saturday morning Humane Society attorneys were not ready, and a continuance of the case until July 10th resulted.

Rankin & Rankin made application to have the child placed in the County Children's Home until that time. Judge Allen took this proposal under consideration.

Saturday afternoon Mrs. Mary Charuhaus filed application for a writ of habeas corpus, claiming the child as being detained without legal authority, and asking possession of the child by authority given by the child's father. The application was to be heard late Saturday afternoon.

ly was replenished with 500 names—the largest number in its history. John Denner, who has been confined in the county jail since his arrest for a crime which shocked everyone who learned of it, is represented by Attorney Lee Rankin, while Jesse Denner, who is alleged to have made a confession telling of his part in the crime, is represented by W. B. Rodgers. The trials will be held separately. What effect the evidence introduced in the trial of John Denner will have in the case of Jesse Denner, is a matter which will be of utmost interest.

WOOL THIEF ADMITS GUILT

Bert Eubanks, arrested in Greenfield on a charge of stealing wool, and held in Chillicothe with his brother John Eubanks, of Highland, also accused of stealing wool, has admitted his guilt.

Eubanks made a confession late Friday afternoon, admitting that he and his brother had stolen $90 worth of wool from I. S. Keaton and sold to a man near this city for $67.

Eubanks admitted stealing two automobile tires from E. K. Polk, of near Sabina, and 40 fleeces of wool from Theodore Giffin, of Sabina. The wool was sold to a man named Hamilton, for the sum of $90. Bert Eubanks claims his brother carried the wool to the machine.

As previously announced, Chief Moore was asked to investigate the sale of the wool near this city.

Since the arrest of the men complaints have been made by farmers from this county, Ross, Highland and Clinton, and it is believed that the two men got away with a vast amount of wool and other produce of value. The wife of John Eubanks states that John has been leaving home at all hours of the night and day, and has had plenty of money of late.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. JANE FOULDS

Washington relatives and friends were greatly shocked and saddened Saturday morning to learn of the death of Mrs. Harry Foulds (nee Jane Willard) through the following article in the Cincinnati Enquirer:

Mrs. Jane W. Foulds, 52 years old, wife of Harry G. Foulds, President of the Cincinnati Perfume Company, died about 8 o'clock last night at her home in the Alexandra Apartments, Gilbert and Locust avenues, Walnut Hills. Dr. Woodward, who was called to the home, found that death was due to heart disease. He notified the Coroner.

Mrs. Foulds was a member of the Woman's Club, Julia Ward Howe Club, Lecture Club, Daughters of the American Revolution and the Walnut Hills Presbyterian Church.

She was a member of one of the most prominent families in Fayette county. Her father was the late Judge Willard. Previous to her marriage in 1897 Mrs. Foulds resided at Washington C. H., Ohio. She had arranged to go to her summer home at Omena, Mich., next week.

Besides her husband she leaves her mother, Mrs. V. S. Willard, a sister, Mrs. Benjamin Faris, wife of an artist of this city, and one brother, Herbert Willard, of Hutchinson, Kan.

Mrs. Foulds spent most of her life, prior to her marriage, in this city, where she was born and reared, and where she developed from a lovable girl into a charming woman.

Always considerate and bright, with spontaneous interest in all that concerned her friends, Jane Willard held a distinctive place of her own in Washington's social circles, and the Willard home was the synonym for gracious hospitality.

Washington friends have never ceased to miss her and her death is most sincerely regretted.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced. Mrs. A. S. Ballard, a cousin of Mrs. Foulds, left for Cincinnati this afternoon.

In Social Circles

A charming pre-nuptial affair of Friday afternoon was a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. C. W. Mark, of Glendon, for her niece, Miss Katharine Mark, who weds Mr. Bruce King the last of next month.

The handsome country home was most inviting, with flowers blooming on the lawn and a profusion of crimson ramblers adorning the large rooms.

Thirty guests enjoyed the hours between two and five o'clock in gay chat, while hemming table linens and towels for the future bride. An ingenious guessing contest "A Floral Romance" was appropos to the occasion and gave the guests a chance to test their wits. Mrs. Paul Carman and Miss Elizabeth Mark tied for the prize, a box of confections.

After the contest the guests were invited to the dining room for a dainty summer collation. The table, effectively decorated in Dorothy Perkins roses and festoons of pink and white, was piled high with beautiful gifts for the bride-to-be.

With becoming blushes and looking very pretty in a gown of pale green Dresden silk, Miss Mark opened the packages and thanked the givers.

The guests were chiefly confined to the Selden neighborhood, those in addition being Mrs. John King, and daughter Lorie, Misses Lura and Grace King, Good Hope; Mrs. F. E. Elchelbarger, of Jeffersonville; Miss Martha Couch, of Bloomingburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fite entertained at a delightful six o'clock dinner Friday evening in compliment to Mrs. Earl Cockerill of Dayton, Mrs. Willis Stutson, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Mrs. Wm. Vail, of Niles.

The table was laid with twelve covers, and artistically decorated with white lilies and canterbury bells.

A week of renewed intimacy among a little coterie of popular Washington girls, separated since their marriages, has been marked by a number of charming affairs, confined to just themselves.

Saturday Mrs. William Vail, of Niles, closed the series pleasantly with a pretty luncheon at the Cherry Hotel. Seated with the hostess were Mrs. Willis Stutson, of Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. Earl Cockerill of Dayton; Mesdames R. O. Young, Ed Fite and Earl Barnett.

The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Colman's church was enjoyable entertained this week by Misses Bess Dean and Helen Bireley at the home of the former.

Washington friends have never ceased to miss her and her death is most sincerely regretted.

MURDER CASE TO COME UP MONDAY

Deep public interest centers in the approaching trial of John Denner, accused of the murder of John (Hoggy) Bainter, which comes up in common pleas court Monday morning.

The number of special veniremen drawn to furnish a jury is 39 and if this number is exhausted, other venirees will be issued until a jury is selected. The jury wheel recently ly was replenished with 500 names—the largest number in its history.

John Denner, who has been confined in the county jail since his arrest for a crime which shocked everyone who learned of it, is represented by Attorney Lee Rankin, while Jesse Denner, who is alleged to have made a confession telling of his part in the crime, is represented by W. B. Rodgers. The trials will be held separately. What effect the evidence introduced in the trial of John Denner will have in the case of Jesse Denner, is a matter which will be of utmost interest.

WOOL THIEF ADMITS GUILT

Bert Eubanks, arrested in Greenfield on a charge of stealing wool, and held in Chillicothe with his brother John Eubanks, of Highland, also accused of stealing wool, has admitted his guilt.

Eubanks made a confession late Friday afternoon, admitting that he and his brother had stolen $90 worth of wool from I. S. Keaton and sold to a man near this city for $67.

Eubanks admitted stealing two automobile tires from E. K. Polk, of near Sabina, and 40 fleeces of wool from Theodore Giffin, of Sabina. The wool was sold to a man named Hamilton, for the sum of $90. Bert Eubanks claims his brother carried the wool to the machine.

As previously announced, Chief Moore was asked to investigate the sale of the wool near this city.

Since the arrest of the men complaints have been made by farmers from this county, Ross, Highland and Clinton, and it is believed that the two men got away with a vast amount of wool and other produce of value. The wife of John Eubanks states that John has been leaving home at all hours of the night and day, and has had plenty of money of late.

In Social Circles

A charming pre-nuptial affair of Friday afternoon was a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. C. W. Mark, of Glendon, for her niece, Miss Katharine Mark, who weds Mr. Bruce King the last of next month.

The handsome country home was most inviting, with flowers blooming on the lawn and a profusion of crimson ramblers adorning the large rooms.

Thirty guests enjoyed the hours between two and five o'clock in gay chat, while hemming table linens and towels for the future bride. An ingenious guessing contest "A Floral Romance" was appropos to the occasion and gave the guests a chance to test their wits. Mrs. Paul Carmen and Miss Elizabeth Mark tied for the prize, a box of confections.

After the contest the guests were invited to the dining room for a dainty summer collation. The table, effectively decorated in Dorothy Perkins roses and festoons of pink and white, was piled high with beautiful gifts for the bride-to-be.

With becoming blushes and looking very pretty in a gown of pale green Dresden silk, Miss Mark opened the packages and thanked the givers.

The guests were chiefly confined to the Selden neighborhood, those in addition being Mrs. John King, and daughter Lorie, Misses Lura and Grace King, Good Hope; Mrs. F. E. Eichelbarger, of Jeffersonville; Miss Martha Couch, of Bloomingburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fite entertained at a delightful six o'clock dinner Friday evening in compliment to Mrs. Earl Cockerill of Dayton, Mrs. Willis Stutson, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Mrs. Wm. Vail, of Niles.

The table was laid with twelve covers, and artistically decorated with white lilies and canterbury bells.

A week of renewed intimacy among a little coterie of popular Washington girls, separated since their marriages, has been marked by a number of charming affairs, confined to just themselves.

Saturday Mrs. William Vail, of Niles, closed the series pleasantly with a pretty luncheon at the Cherry Hotel. Seated with the hostess were Mrs. Willis Stutson, of Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. Earl Cockerill of Dayton; Mesdames R. O. Young, Ed Fite and Earl Barnett.

The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Colman's church was enjoyable entertained this week by Misses Bess Dean and Helen Bireley at the home of the former.

LOCAL GIRL WINS PRAISE

It will be of interest to friends in this city to learn that Miss Anita Plymire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Plymire, who graduated in Domestic Science from the Thomas Training School in Detroit, Mich., this month, is already winning rec-ognition.

Miss Plymire was selected by the Thomas School in answer to a re-quest of the Delphos Gas Co., for an expert food demonstrator and lec-turer.

Regarding her work the Delphos Daily Herald says:

"The cooking and baking demon-stration, with lectures by Miss Anita Plymire, of the Thomas Normal School of Detroit, Mich., are proving attractive to the ladies of the city. The demonstrations are being made in the St. John's auditorium, open-ing Wednesday afternoon and con-tinuing for three days. The demon-stration is being made under the aus-pices of the Delphos Gas Company.

"Wednesday afternoon, the open-ing session of the demonstration, Miss Plymire made marguerites, cocoa, cheese biscuits, omelet, tuna salad and coffee, doing the cooking on a gas range. She also delivered a lecture, and those who wished could sample the dainties prepared. Thursday morning a contest in cake baking will be held and in the after-noon the demonstrator will prepare a dinner in 30 minutes, consisting of broiled stake, with butter sauce, mashed potatoes, cucumber boat salad, and short cake."

TERRIFIC IS FIGHTING AT MEXICO CITY

Washington, June 25.—Dispatches from Vera Cruz state that Carranza officials are much chagrined at the apparent failure of General Pablo Gonzales to enter the Mexican capital. Reports that General Gonzales was engaged in an artillery due with the Zapatistas gave the first indications that the Villa-Zapata forces in Mexico City had determined to offer resistance to the invading Carranza army instead of evacuating.

Reliable information indicates that General Gonzales himself cut the lines of communication between Vera Cruz and Mexico City in order to isolate the Zapata forces. This prevents the state department from communicating with the Brazilian minister and deprives all other foreign governments of information concerning their diplomatic missions and subjects.

Famine conditions in Mexico City have been growing worse daily and, with the investment by a new army in progress, fears are expressed that much suffering to foreigners will ensue.

While it has been generally understood that there will be no further developments in the general Mexican situation, so far as the United States is concerned, until the return of President Wilson from Cornish, it is thought in official quarters that the situation in the Mexican capital may force a new crisis.

General Carranza has given the American government formal assurances that every effort will be made by General Gonzales to guard the lives and property of foreigners if his troops enter the city. It is feared, however, that the fighting may be carried into the old capital by the contending forces, although the diplomatic corps hitherto has been successful in persuading the garrison to evacuate rather than give battle in the streets.

General Hernandez, commanding forces in the Monclova district, refuses to permit American Red Cross agents to buy corn and beans in Mexico, but has given permission to bring them from the United States. Plans to bring about co-operation between the American and the Mexican Red Cross societies were set on foot by Miss Mabel T. Boardman. The state department requested Consul General Shunklin, now at Vera Cruz, to get in touch with the Mexican Red Cross officials as soon as he reaches Mexico City and outline Miss Boardman's proposal.

Government officials concluded that there had been no change in the situation in the Yaqui valley, where American settlers recently were menaced by Indians, after the receipt of a dispatch from Admiral Howard, which mentioned only the routine of ship movements.

Coach Overturns.

Cambridge, O., June 25.—Two passengers and a fireman were injured when the engine and one coach of a northbound Baltimore and Ohio train left the track and overturned near Cumberland, Guernsey county. The injured are John A. Connor and L. R. Harper of Cumberland and J. D. Joanson, a fireman. All are expected to recover.

Guardmen Get More Money.

Columbus, June 25.—Practically all of the $50,000 appropriation to the state emergency board will be used before the end of the past budget period, June 30. The board granted the adjutant general an additional $13,000 to pay for attendance of guardsmen upon drills, the funds being insufficient to meet the obligations.

Babes Burned to Death.

Cleveland, June 25.—Joyce White, aged nineteen months, was burned to death in her Lakewood home, and Carlton, her three-year-old brother, suffered burns from which he died a few hours later, when their mother, Mrs. R. L. White, left them playing in the basement laundry, forgetting to turn off the burner of a gas stove.

Raid of Motorcycle Bandits.

Cleveland, June 25.—Four motorcycle bandits riding tandem, on two machines, and all armed with revolvers, staged five holdups and entered one house and three business places on the West Side. They wound up their whirl of crime by stealing $1,000 worth of moving picture films.

YOUNG LOVER FOUND GUILTY

Lima, O., June 25.—Dorance Riddle, twenty-five, who was on trial here for the murder of his sweetheart, Susie Coleman, sixteen, was found guilty of murder in the first degree with a recommendation of clemency.

Riddle was charged with killing Susie Coleman, with whom he had kept company for several months, in a railroad yard here on the night of April 14. He was arrested on the following day and it is said confessed to the police.

Two days later Pauline Snowden, eighteen, Riddle's "correspondence sweetheart," killed herself at her home in Nashville, Tenn., after learning of her lover's predicament. They had never met but had corresponded for years, and Riddle was to have visited her this summer.

A bitter fight was waged by the defense to save Riddle from the electric chair on the ground that he was insane when he killed the girl.

MR. WILSON PRIVATE CITIZEN

Windsor, Vt., June 25.—President Wilson has become Woodrow Wilson, private citizen, as far as he can make it possible. Secluded in his summer home in the Cornish hills of New Hampshire, across the Connecticut river, the president is on his vacation. He promised to obey his physician's orders to drop all work, except of the most urgent character, and rest and play for ten days or longer if possible.

A reunion of the president's family marked the beginning of his vacation. The president, his daughter, Miss Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, son-in-law and daughter of the chief executive; Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the president's cousin, and baby Francis Woodrow Sayre, were gathered around a cheery wood fire in Harlakenden House, the summer White House. Cary T. Grayson, the president's personal "physical trainer" and golfing companion, completed the executive family.

BILLION TO CARRY ON THE FIGHTING

Paris, June 25.—The bill appropriating $1,120,000,000 to cover the expenses of the French campaign for three months, beginning July 1, was passed in the chamber of deputies by a vote of 492 to 1.

MIDDY TELLS OF PRACTICE OF HAZING

Annapolis, Md., June 25.—That hazing still exists in the naval academy was the testimony of Midshipman Charles M. Reagle before the court of inquiry at the naval academy. The chance statement that he had gone in an upper classman's room and seen a "plebe" with his face to the wall gave Representative Carlin, one of the defendants' counsel, his opportunity, and he developed the fact that this was part of the hazing the midshipmen received during their first year. The connection with the present inquiry was, according to Mr. Carlin, that they would prove that midshipmen had been compelled to secure information for upper classmen through hazing or threats of hazing.

Reagle related a line of physical stunts which had been required of him and other midshipmen, which paralleled exactly the old practices revealed by the investigation of 1906.

On the matter of securing advance information, Reagle's testimony also had its strong points. He had had numerous keys, he said, and still had two of them in his box, with a pair of pincers, with which he opened windows. He admitted that he had taken slips with coming recitations on them, worked out problems, blue prints and models, rough sheets of the examination in English, which afterwards proved largely correct, were a part of his spoils. In fact several of the departments yielded matter which proved helpful to him or other midshipmen. Midshipmen Waddell, Glick, Keller and Wallicker were among the midshipmen named by Reagle as companions on more or less of his trips

SEC'Y DANIELS TO ORDER PROBE

Washington, June 25.—A special inquiry into the charge that hazing is prevalent at the naval academy just as at any time in the past, undoubtedly will be ordered by Secretary of the Navy Daniels. Naval officials were astounded when they were informed that at the session of the court of inquiry, which is now probing the "cribbing" case at Annapolis, testimony that plebes were subjected to "brutal and disgusting experiences" was given by Midshipman Charles Reagle.

TO THE POINT

The highest price ever paid for zinc ore was received by a mining firm when twenty-seven tons sold at Joplin, Mo., for $139.90 a ton.

James Crafall of Roundhead, O., driver of a Ford racer, was fatally injured when his car turned turtle at a curve on a half mile track near Kenton, O.

At Fresno, Cal., the main winery and storehouse of the Barton Vineyard company, together with 700,000 gallons of wine, were destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $500,000.

RUSSIANS TURN UPON PURSUERS

London, June 26.—The Teutonic advance through Galicia is not to be a military excursion after all, according to reports from Petrograd and Berlin. Just at the moment when it was thought that nothing was to impede the expulsion of the Russians from Austrian territory, unexpected opposition of the strongest character developed southeast of Lemberg along the Dniester.

Berlin admits that General Von Linzinger's forces which had come north from Stryj and had crossed the Dniester, have been forced to withdraw to the south bank of the river northwest of Galicz. The wing of the army north of this point is said to be advancing, but the Russians are making a firm stand below and on terms more equal than they have been at any time in the recent campaign. The heaviest guns that overwhelmed the Russians in the Carpathians are principally with the forces of Field Marshal Von Mackensen.

The Russians have had similar success with the Austrians also on the Dniester. Near Mariyvo and Rousdevanny the Austrians crossed to the left bank of the Dniester, where they were confronted by the Russians, who in an impetuous counter attack threw them back, compelling many to take refuge on islands and demoralizing many more. Still farther south the Russians administered similar treatment to the Austrians. Southeast of Nizidniow the Russians suddenly took the offensive and attacked and took a garrison with many prisoners.

The Austro-German forces, north of Lemberg, are sweeping forward. Few military writers care to hazard a guess of what the next move of the Teutons will be. It is argued by them that the situation in the west may at any moment become pressing and that Germany and Austria may be forced to be content with having recovered Galicia and broken the Russian offensive without seeking further to annihilate her at this time.

The French and German claims relative to the fighting on the western front are widely at variance. Military observers here believe that the French still have their eyes on Lille, with its factories and railroad lines, and advance the theory that the recurrent and persistent attacks week in and week out along virtually the same section of the German front proves this.

The European allies seem to be finding out the truth of certain old war maxims. For instance, "overpreparedness is better than underpreparedness" and "overestimating the foe is better than underestimating."

THE GREAT COMISKEY TO TAKE A LOOK AT COTTERILL

Mr. Irwin Bell, of South North street, this city, one of the many admirers of and believers in the ability of Washington's star pitcher, Cotterill, recently communicated to his friend Charles A. Comiskey, president of the Chicago White Sox, the fact that Washington C. H. possessed a regular "phenom," and in reply thereto Saturday received the following communication from the great Comiskey:

"I am in receipt of your letter of June 21st, together with clipping, and was delighted to hear from you.

"I note what you say regarding pitcher Cotterill, and wish to thank you most kindly for the information you have advanced to me. I will have a man look him over at the first opportunity.

"I am always delighted to hear from admirers of the White Sox, as we are on the lookout for likely young ballplayers that show major league ability.

"With kindest personal regards, I remain, etc."

The news that Cott is to be looked over by a "big league" scout will be received with pleasure by Cott's many friends, who have confidence that the local boy will make good with the majors if given a good, fair tryout.

The fans would hate almighty much to lose Cott, but in view of such an advancement as he will be given an opportunity to attain would feel too proud of his success to look unkindly on the transfer.

LAST NIGHT OF DEMONSTRATION

Tonight will be the last opportunity for people to attend the demonstration given by Miss Frush, of the Westinghouse Electrical appliances, at the Electric Shop, 224 E. Court street.

A number have attended this demonstration during the week and have been intensely interested in seeing the ingenious appliances put out by the Westinghouse people to aid in creating summer comfort.

Only those who have personally witnessed and attended can conceive of the large number of household appliances operated by electricity.

The preparation of dinner and breakfast, the serving of luncheon delicacies and afternoon tea on the toaster stove; the elimination of fatigue by the use of the electric sewing machine; the general comfort of the general utility motor, which saves labor in polishing silverware, sharpening knives, in washing, turning the ice cream freezer and many labor saving devices, and the helpful provisions for the up to date boudoir, are all shown to visitors.

The breakfast table, daintily set in gold band china, with the neat electrical toaster-stove at one side, all ready for easy preparation of the breakfast, is the first attraction.

It has been demonstrated that by the use of this toaster and the coffee percolator a tempting breakfast of fruit, cereal, pancakes, breakfast bacon, eggs, toast and coffee, can be cooked and served in fifteen minutes without rising from the table.

The boudoir equipment shows one of the greatest conveniences ever put out for women's use, the electric iron. This is in different sizes and the small traveler's iron can also be turned down and used as a small stove for heating purposes.

The Electric Shop is under the capable management of Ellis Bishop.

From the veriest character part to the tremendous roles assumed by Miss Whitney & Stuart Holmes the acting is unmatched. Truly a remarkable photo play in every respect. A magnificent triumph.

DUTCH TREAT CLUB TO AID WELFARE ASS'N

The Y. M. C. A. Dutch Treat club composed of men prominent in the business and social activities of Washington C. H., Friday pledged itself to assist in the Welfare Association's Fourth of July celebration and committees were immediately appointed to take the matter up with the Welfare Association officials.

This action was taken in response to an invitation voiced by Dr. R. M. Hughey of the Welfare League.

The celebration in question will be held Monday, July 5, and will be conducted in compliance with the recognized rules of safety and sanity.

CORN IS BOOMING THROUGHOUT COUNTY

Fayette's big corn crop has been growing by leaps and bounds the past few days, and the farmers have been kept busy looking after the weeds, which obtained a strong foothold during the wet weather.

With proper growing weather the corn is expected to make a marvelous growth during the next few weeks, and the farmers who have found that their wheat crop is not as good as they at first anticipated, are seeking comfort in the splendid prospects of a big corn crop as well as other crops.

MOTHERS' MEETING

The W. C. T. U. meeting held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Harsha, was full of interest and had quite a good attendance.

Mrs. Alice Adams conducted the opening service and the president, Mrs. Stafford, then called for reports of secretary and other officers, which were of much interest as the flower mission day and other features of the work were discussed.

The June meeting was especially set apart as the Evangelistic and Mothers' Meeting and Mrs. Adams had planned for special effort in these lines.

The first number was a poem read by Mrs. Hughey entitled, "The Don'ts for Parents," its suggestions well made. Mrs. Kennedy gave a leaflet, "Literature and Character," showing effectively how one makes the other. Two subjects were brought up by Mrs. Adams and earnestly considered feeling that they came in well on Mothers' Day. These were "Literature for our young people" and "Cigarettes."

Mrs. Jenkins gave the closing thought for the hour by reading the "Prayer for Peace." A little social time was enjoyed and delicious lemonade served.

Mrs. Edith Frazer of Xenia was an out of town guest.

Y. M. C. A. BUDGET TO BE PREPARED

Ladies Gym Class will serve Dalbey's Purity Potato Chips tonight at supper.

THE GREAT COMISKEY TO TAKE A LOOK AT COTTERILL

Mr. Irwin Bell, of South North street, this city, one of the many admirers of and believers in the ability of Washington's star pitcher, Cotterill, recently communicated to his friend Charles A. Comiskey, president of the Chicago White Sox, the fact that Washington C. H. possessed a regular "phenom," and in reply thereto Saturday received the following communication from the great Comiskey:

"I am in receipt of your letter of June 21st, together with clipping, and was delighted to hear from you. I note what you say regarding pitcher Cotterill, and wish to thank you most kindly for the information you have advanced to me. I will have a man look him over at the first opportunity.

"I am always delighted to hear from admirers of the White Sox, as we are on the lookout for likely young ballplayers that show major league ability.

"With kindest personal regards, I remain, etc."

The news that Cott is to be looked over by a "big league" scout will be received with pleasure by Cott's many friends, who have confidence that the local boy will make good with the majors if given a good, fair tryout.

The fans would hate almighty much to lose Cott, but in view of such an advancement as he will be given an opportunity to attain would feel too proud of his success to look unkindly on the transfer.

LAST NIGHT OF DEMONSTRATION

Tonight will be the last opportunity for people to attend the demonstration given by Miss Frush, of the Westinghouse Electrical appliances, at the Electric Shop, 224 E. Court street.

A number have attended this demonstration during the week and have been intensely interested in seeing the ingenious appliances put out by the Westinghouse people to aid in creating summer comfort.

Only those who have personally witnessed and attended can conceive of the large number of household appliances operated by electricity.

The preparation of dinner and breakfast, the serving of luncheon and afternoon tea on the toaster stove; the elimination of fatigue by the use of the electric sewing machine; the general comfort of the general utility motor, which saves labor in polishing silverware, sharpening knives, washing, turning the ice cream freezer and many labor saving devices, and the helpful provisions for the up to date boudoir, are all shown to visitors.

The breakfast table, daintily set in gold band china, with the neat electrical toaster-stove at one side, all ready for easy preparation of the breakfast, is the first attraction.

It has been demonstrated that by the use of this toaster and the coffee percolator a tempting breakfast of fruit, cereal, pancakes, breakfast bacon, eggs, toast and coffee, can be cooked and served in fifteen minutes without rising from the table.

The boudoir equipment shows one of the greatest conveniences ever put out for women's use, the electric iron. This is in different sizes and the small traveler's iron can also be turned down and used as a small stove for heating purposes.

The Electric Shop is under the capable management of Ellis Bishop.

Will be the attraction at the Palace Theater

Matinee and Night, Tuesday, June 29.

A $200,000 photo play production by VICTORIA CROSS. A photo play that has played return engagements to capacity business where ever shown. The absolute realism attained in this master piece is truly remarkable. The force of Miss Claire Whitney's vigorous personality tenses the nerves to the breaking point, and in several of the big scenes the dominance of this wonderful character fairly overpowers. From the veriest character part to the tremendous roles assumed by Miss Whitney & Stuart Holmes the acting is unmatchable. Truly a remarkable photo play in every respect. A magnificent triumph.

CORN IS BOOMING THROUGHOUT COUNTY

Fayette's big corn crop has been growing by leaps and bounds the past few days, and the farmers have been kept busy looking after the weeds, which obtained a strong foothold during the wet weather.

With proper growing weather the corn is expected to make a marvelous growth during the next few weeks, and the farmers who have found that their wheat crop is not as good as they at first anticipated, are seeking comfort in the splendid prospects of a big corn crop as well as other crops.

MOTHERS' MEETING

The W. C. T. U. meeting held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Harsha, was full of interest and had quite a good attendance.

Mrs. Alice Adams conducted the opening service and the president, Mrs. Stafford, then called for reports of secretary and other officers, which were of much interest as the flower mission day and other features of the work were discussed.

The June meeting was especially set apart as the Evangelistic and Mothers' Meeting and Mrs. Adams had planned for special effort in these lines.

The first number was a poem read by Mrs. Hughey entitled, "The Don'ts for Parents," its suggestions well made. Mrs. Kennedy gave a leaflet, "Literature and Character," showing effectively how one makes the other. Two subjects were brought up by Mrs. Adams and earnestly considered feeling that they came in well on Mothers' Day. These were "Literature for our young people" and "Cigarettes."

Mrs. Jenkins gave the closing thought for the hour by reading the "Prayer for Peace." A little social time was enjoyed and delicious lemonade served.

Mrs. Edith Frazer of Xenia was an out of town guest.
